

Advertisement for a Contractor to Perform a Study

We are requesting proposals for conducting a study and hosting a roundtable discussion on the topic of the contribution of the film and television industries, and the internet to the Shanghai economy. The purpose of the study and roundtable forum is to raise awareness of the issue of film piracy in Shanghai, and to look at the contribution of the creative industries to the local economy as a barometer of China's progress in achieving its goal of being an innovation-driven economy. The U.S. Consulate Shanghai intends to use the forum to engage stakeholders in government and industry to discuss these issues.

The contract performance period will be from the award of the contract until the publication of the study and hosting of the roundtable forum. The study must be published, and the roundtable forum must be held no later than the first week of May 2013.

Interested bidders should contact cumminske@state.gov for solicitation documents. Bids are due by 4 PM, September 10, 2012.
